The Wisconsin Cattlemen's Association supports maintaining fee structures that reflect the financial realities of farmers and ranchers, while ensuring that critical health and food safety programs remain effective. Identifying alternative funding sources, outside of fee increases, will be key to sustaining these vital programs without placing undue strain on the agricultural community.

We are committed to working collaboratively with the legislature and DATCP to develop a fair, balanced and sustainable approach that protects both animal and human health while supporting the continued success and vitality of Wisconsin agriculture.
